Research

Fact-finding group visits, sponsored by corporations, can help The Eurasia Center better understand the unique economic, political, and social climate of Korea, explain its past successes and setbacks, and assess its future progress and needs. The Eurasia Center, multinational corporations (MNCs), non-governmental organizations (NGOs), the academic community, the political arena, and Korea itself can all gain valuable insight from these research activities.

The Eurasia Center on Korea

Lecture Series, Roundtables, and Symposia

The Eurasia Center has a reputation for its thought-provoking lecture series and roundtable discussions that focus on issues relating to modern Korea.

Our previous topics have included, security, sustainable economic development, trade, foreign direct investment, social capital, human development, the region post World War II, population growth, the effects of North Korea's foreign policies, the environment, and the de-centering of the West and increasing importance of East Asia as a political and economic force. These events foster greater understanding of East Asia as a historical entity and as a current locus of international influence.

Please consider contributing to

Cultural Events

The Eurasia Center is involved in a wide range of cultural activities. In the past we have promoted books related to the region, created a bulletin board space for cultural discussions, and hosted students and professionals from East Asia and the West to benefit cultural exchange.

We believe these events help both Asia and the West better conceptualize each other as separate, but strongly interacting entities rather than monolithic, colluding blocs of shared interests. The Eurasia Center's efforts in the cultural arena help establish stronger, more nuanced ties between the people of Asia and the United States, which will lead to inclusive economic growth, clear international dialogue, and wide-ranging cultural exchange.

Internships

The Eurasia Center plans to engage the U.S. and East Asian Governments, multi-national companies, foundations, and individuals with an interest in Asia to sponsor our internship program. We are targeting highly-qualified interns from South Korea and the United States to participate in our Program and we will provide them with the opportunity to research and study developments in U.S.-Korean relations from the geographical heart of U.S. foreign policy. The Eurasia Center Internship Program encourages communication with and between U.S. and Asian organizations in the hope that it will both lay the foundation for better international cooperation and train the younger generation to take a lead role in the international sphere.
